

Background

Kerrick Williams has been in the photography and video production industry for a number of years, but one constant challenge he has encountered is finding the appropriate personnel, that one perfect individual he could rely on to run the show whether he is present or not.

Most of the organizations he had previously employed had failed to deliver great services. He's been more careful about who he hires since then to avoid a bad job.

Results

Before employing Events AV, Kerrick Photography was often troubled by bad sound when photographing outdoor events; every AV provider they dealt with never quite got their sounds perfect, which was a major source of irritation.

This stopped happening after Events AV was hired. Kerrick Williams was overjoyed that everything went off without a hitch.

"All the jobs that I can think of where he was working were all successful. No excuses."

The Process

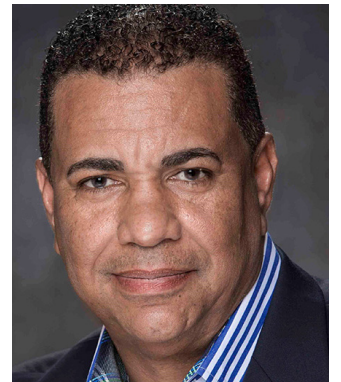

For Kerrick Williams, meeting and working with Events AV was a superb experience, one which he relishes.

"I began out solely in photography years ago." It was there that I met AnTwan. He was setting up and overseeing things at a huge event, the Tampa Port Authority annual convention, which I attended. Antwan ran the whole event which turned out to be a good one."

Kerrick was so impressed with Event AV's services that he had to refer numerous friends.

"As a result of that, I felt proud to know him." Since then, we've met on various occasions, and I've recommended him to others."

"I've seen what he's capable of. Based on what I've seen, he appears to know what he's talking about. He's done a good job working for a number of large corporations."
